14. To value; to estimate; to rate.

Be you contented
To have a son set your decrees at nought?
To pluck down justice from your awful bench,
To trip the course of law? Shakspeare, H. IV.

The backwardness parents shew in divulging their faults, will make them set a greater value on their credit themselves, and teach them to be the more careful to preserve the good opinion of others. Locke.

If we act by several broken views, and will not only be virtuous, but wealthy, popular, and every thing that has a value set upon it by the world, we shall live and die in misery. Addison.

Have I not set at nought my noble birth,
A spotless fame, and an unblemish'd race,
The peace of innocence, and pride of virtue?
My prodigality has giv'n thee all. Rowe's Jane Shore.

Though the same fun, with all diffusive rays,
Blush in the rose and in the diamond blaze,
We prize the stronger effort of his power,
And always set the gem above the flower. Pope.

15. To stake at play.

What sad disorders play begets!
Desperate and mad, at length he sets
Those darts, whose points make gods adore. Prior.
